A baby is born with cerebral palsy, the result of obstetrical negligence.

A 79-year-old man dies after being struck by a Chicago Transit Authority bus that ran a red light.

A 44-year-old man develops "locked in" syndrome – becoming a prisoner in a useless body – after failing to receive appropriate care for a stroke.

No case is too difficult, no defendant too large or powerful, for personal injury lawyer Susan E. Loggans, who successfully represented the plaintiffs in all three cases, obtaining multimillion-dollar settlements for each one.

Loggans has been fighting for those who have been harmed by others' negligence or improper conduct for more than 30 years and takes pride in remaining on the cutting edge of her profession. She is known for tough, no-nonsense litigation and her relentless pursuit of appropriate compensation for victims injured or killed.

Indeed, her firm, Susan E. Loggans & Associates, P.C., has recovered many millions of dollars for thousands of clients from all walks of life and with all kinds of injuries. The Chicago-based law firm focuses on cases involving aviation tragedies (Loggans is a multi-engine rated pilot), all types of medical negligence, product liability, motor vehicle collisions, construction injuries, wrongful death and premises liability matters.

The actor Dennis Quaid and his wife turned to Loggans after their newborn twins nearly died from an accidental drug overdose in a Los Angeles hospital, as did two underage girls who claimed that R&B superstar R. Kelly had sex with them. The firm is currently representing families whose loved ones' graves were desecrated by employees of the Burr Oak Cemetery in Alsip, Ill., and has filed suit on their behalf.

Advocate for Children With Cerebral Palsy

Loggans is especially well known for her advocacy on behalf of children with cerebral palsy and has recovered many millions of dollars to provide them with needed care and equipment throughout their lives. In fact, she has served as a member of the Board of Directors of United Cerebral Palsy of Greater Chicago for more than 15 years, and has taken on – and won – a number of cases other lawyers have turned away.

"Many lawyers don't understand the full impact a child with cerebral palsy has on every member of a family," she explains. "As the mother of five children, I understand how difficult it is to be a parent at all, let alone of a child with an injury. Plus, I'm often able to see a case where others cannot."

Regardless of the type of injury, every client benefits from Loggans' personal attention and wide-ranging experience and expertise. As the firm's sole owner, she closely supervises every case. "I make every single decision about every single case," she says. "My clients can count on that."

SHE WILL FIGHT FOR YOU

Named one of the Top 15 Trial Lawyers in the U.S. when she was just 25, and chosen to lead the American Trial Lawyers Tort Law Section five years later, Susan E. Loggans is a widely published author and a popular lecturer and teacher. She has shared her expertise on the "The Today Show," CBS Morning News, Fox News, "The Oprah Winfrey Show" and other programs. Loggans holds a number of national and state records, including a $16 million cash recovery against an HMO and a $6.5 million verdict in a medical malpractice case.
